B. The workshop is on Sunday morning.
C. You can learn to repair a bicycle.

Part 2 — Questions 7–13

Read the three texts about how three young people spend their free time. For each question, choose the correct person.

Maya — I started making short films with my phone two years ago. At first I only filmed my dog, but now my friends and I write little stories and film them in the park. We don't have expensive cameras — the phone is enough. The hard part is the editing: I usually spend three or four evenings on a five-minute film. My parents say I should do my homework first, and they're right! Last month our film won a prize at a school competition.

Tom — I'm in a swimming club and I train four times a week, so I don't have much free time. When I do, I like cooking. I'm not very good at it, but I'm learning. My grandfather taught me to make bread, and now I make it every Sunday. The kitchen gets very messy, and my sister complains about the flour everywhere. I'd like to take a cooking course next summer, but it's expensive, so I'm saving money.

Inés — I love getting letters and postcards, so I joined a club where you write to people in other countries. I write to a girl in Japan and a boy in Brazil. We write about school, music and our families, and we send photos too. It takes time — I write one long letter every month — but I prefer it to texting because I can say more. My English has got much better, and I've learned some Japanese words as well.

Câu 7. Who has won something for their hobby?

Câu 8. Who spends a lot of time on one part of their hobby?

Câu 9. Who is saving money for a course?

Câu 10. Who learned something from an older family member?

Câu 11. Who writes to people in different countries?

Câu 12. Who says their language skills have improved?

Câu 13. Who sometimes makes a mess at home?

Part 3 — Questions 14–18

Read the article about a library of things. For each question, choose the correct answer.

Borrow it, don't buy it

When Ella was twelve, she needed a drill to put up a shelf in her bedroom. Her family did not have one, and a new drill cost more than £40. "I only needed it for ten minutes," she says. "It seemed silly to buy one."

Ella's father took her to a 'library of things' in their town. It is a shop where people borrow objects — tools, camping equipment, musical instruments, sports things — in the same way they borrow books. You join for £10 a year and then you pay nothing to borrow. Ella borrowed the drill, fixed her shelf, and gave it back the next day.

Six months later, Ella started helping at the library every Saturday morning. She checks the objects, cleans them and writes the names in a computer. "People are always surprised that we have so much," she says. "Last week someone borrowed a guitar, and a family borrowed a tent for the weekend."

Ella thinks young people should use the library more. "You don't need to ask your parents for money, and you don't fill your house with things you use once. It's also good for the planet." Her favourite object? "The sewing machine. I made a bag from an old pair of jeans. My friends couldn't believe I made it myself."

Câu 14. Why did Ella need a drill?

A. to help her father
B. to put up a shelf
C. to repair a chair

Câu 15. What did Ella think about buying a drill?

A. It was too expensive for one small job.
B. It was better than borrowing one.
C. It was difficult to find in shops.

Câu 16. How much does it cost to borrow things after you join?

A. £10 each time
B. a small amount every month
C. nothing

Câu 17. What does Ella do at the library now?

A. She teaches people to use tools.
B. She looks after the objects.
C. She sells new equipment.

Câu 18. Why does Ella say young people should use the library?

A. They can meet other young people.
B. They can learn to make clothes.
C. They save money and help the environment.
